HIGH TECHNOLOGY SOLUTIONS
PRESENTS

Three New Typeface
Families

Vermeer

Hiroshige

Amadeus

HIGH TECHNOLOGY SOLUTIONS is pleased to offer three new type families now available only on the MPS/Fastsetter Typesetter, the first releases of an aggressive program to develop original typefaces for digital text composition. These families represent the best elements of traditional text type styles—legibility, clarity, and harmony—without the design and creative limitations imposed by previous technologies.

Vermeer, Hiroshige, and Amadeus will soon be available in four weights with matching italics. HTS uses a 128-character font with complete diacritical marks that facilitate typesetting in all Roman-based languages. A complete ligature series is part of the font.

The three introductory families span the variety of basic type styles. Vermeer is in the spirit of a venetian type, with long ascenders, short descenders, and a distinctive open-tailed "g" form. Amadeus fits into the old style category, with an elegant line and serif treatment that produces a very classic face. Hiroshige is a contemporary calligraphic style, with a large x-height and medium length ascenders and descenders. It makes a clear and sparkling text as well as distinctive headlines.

These new typefaces are available under license to companies that are interested in acquiring them for use on various output systems. HTS can supply clean digital information for each font to the licensee's specifications for use on systems ranging from low resolution desktop printers to high resolution phototypesetting systems. The analog version of the typefaces is also available for license.
