

Bronislav Malý

Tschechien.

Cantoria

1969 Grafotechna

Nothing in this Declaration may be interpreted as authorizing any State, group or person any right to engage in any activity or to perform any act aimed at curtailing or destroying any of the rights and freedoms set forth in this Declaration, which are of the same nature and scope as those which are set forth in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights of 1948 and which are equally protected by the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights of 1966, and in the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights of 1966, which are also of the same nature and scope as those which are set forth in this Declaration.